SEX TEACHING

DISAPPROVED

In the Public Schools by the Editor of the Woman's Home Companion.

On the subject of the teaching of sex hygiene in schools the editor of the Woman's Home Companion says in the May number:

"Many sincere people, who are urging the study of sex hygiene in the classroom, have much to say about the evils of ignorance, and their dramatic, not to say sensational, recital of these evils often makes a profound impression."

"The principle that ignorance makes for evil and knowledge makes for good is not always a safe guide in dealing with the minds and bodies of children. It might work infallibly if all children were alike and if all teachers were fitted to teach the lesson requiring supreme tact and almost divine sympathy."

"The Woman's Home Companion strongly urges that sex hygiene shall not now be taught in our public schools. Satisfactory mechanical methods of giving this instruction to children have not yet been worked out. It has been tried and has not been successful, as the whole question is an experimental stage, and discussion of details should be confined to normal schools and to conferences of adults, without subjecting children to the danger of wrong instruction.

"In Montclair, New Jersey, a resolution was adopted calling for the appointment of a state commission to inquire into the best method of giving such instruction, surely a step in the right direction."

"It is a significant fact that the Board of Education of Chicago, one of the first cities to introduce a special course of sex hygiene in its schools, has recently voted to abandon the course."

The lowest human habitation is said to be that of the coal miners in Bohemia, some of whom make their dwellings at a point over 2,000 feet below the level of the sea.
